The furry fandom is a unique and creative subculture that has captured the interest of people around the world. It centers around the fascination with anthropomorphic animal characters, or animals with human-like attributes. While the term "furry" might be unfamiliar to some, it refers to individuals who are fans of these characters and are actively involved in the furry community.

What sets the furry fandom apart is the deep level of creativity it encourages. Members of the fandom often create their own personalized animal characters, known as fursonas. These fursonas serve as representations of themselves in the form of animal personas. Some people prefer to design their fursonas as a reflection of their own personality traits, while others view it as an opportunity to be someone entirely different.

One of the most exciting aspects of the furry fandom is the artwork that emerges from it. Talented artists within the community create stunning illustrations, paintings, and digital art featuring anthropomorphic characters. These artworks showcase the creativity and imagination of furry artists and are often shared and admired by fellow furries within the community.

Another notable feature of the furry fandom is the creation and wearing of fursuits. Fursuits are full-body costumes that allow individuals to physically embody their fursonas. They are often seen at conventions and events where furries gather to socialize, connect with others, and showcase their furry characters. Fursuits can be purchased or custom-made, and the craftsmanship and attention to detail behind them are truly impressive.

Beyond the creativity and artistic expression, the furry fandom also provides a strong sense of community. There are online forums, social media groups, and local meet-ups where furries can connect and share their love for anthropomorphic animal characters. These platforms allow furries to engage in discussions, share artwork, and form friendships with like-minded individuals who appreciate their unique interests.

While the furry fandom has faced some misconceptions and stereotypes, it is important to recognize the passion, creativity, and sense of belonging that it provides to its members. The furry community is a diverse and inclusive space that celebrates individuality and the love for anthropomorphic animal characters.

In conclusion, the furry fandom is a vibrant subculture that fosters imagination, creativity, and a strong sense of community. From designing fursonas to creating artwork and wearing fursuits, furries find joy in expressing their love for anthropomorphic characters. So, the next time you encounter someone involved in the furry fandom, remember the depth of their creativity and the inclusive community they contribute to.

Have you ever heard of the term "furry"? The furry fandom is a subculture(亚文化) that centers around anthropomorphic animal characters, which basically refers to animals with human-like characteristics. It is a highly diverse and creative community that has gained popularity among individuals of all ages.

One of the key features of the furry subculture is the creation and fascination with fursonas, which are personalized animal characters that individuals in the fandom design for themselves. These characters could be anything from a fox with magical abilities to a wolf with a knack for solving mysteries. Fursonas serve as a means of personal expression for members of the furry fandom and provide a way for them to connect with their chosen animal personal.

One of the reasons for the appeal of furry culture is the opportunity it provides for creativity. Furry artists, writers, and costume designers express their talents through the creation of intricate animal-themed artwork, literature, and elaborate fursuits, which are full-body animal costumes. These costumes are often seen at conventions and events where furries gather to celebrate their shared interests.

The furry community also values inclusivity and acceptance. It is a space where people from various backgrounds can come together and form meaningful connections. Many members credit the furry fandom with helping them build confidence, form lasting friendships, and foster a sense of belonging.

However, it is important to note that the furry subculture has faced misconceptions (误解) and stereotypes (定型). Some perceive the fandom as strictly sexual or a mere fascination with mascot-like costumes. 第二节(满分 25 分)

阅读下面材料，根据其内容和所给段落开头语续写两段，使之构成一篇完整的短文。

My name is Zlan, and something really crazy has happened to me. Last week, I went to the mountains with my good friend Mike. I said to Mike nervously, "Are you sure you want to go here? There's no one here!" Mike took my bag: "Why are you so timid?" I was 16 and Mike was 17. The grown-ups are working. Nobody's looking after us. I took my bag away from Mike and said, "Who's afraid of who! Just go." So, Mike and I went up the mountain together.

This mountain is called "Running Wolf Mountain". I had heard my grandmother speak of this mountain before. At that time, Grandma said: "There are wolves on this mountain, most of them are fierce(凶猛的), you can't go near. But there are a few wolves out there who don't mind. If it hadn't been for the safe wolves, our village might have moved away." So I've lived here all my life now and I've never been anywhere else. "Why are you so silly? Let's go!" Mike pulled me out of my memory. I had hardly begun to enter the hill when I heard something moving through the grass, but the sound soon died away. "Zlan, do you want to go over there and see what it is?" "No, I'm afraid it's a Wolf." "What are you afraid of? Let's go!"

The two of us looked closer. It was a Wolf cub(幼兽). He's probably less than a month old. "Do you want to take it away? Poor(可怜的) thing." "All right! Looking back now, I think it was both right and wrong to take it away, but at that time, out of enthusiasm(热情) and excitement, I did not think about it. Then the grass moved a few more times.

The higher you go, the more snow you get under your feet. "Why is there still snow here?" I said to Mike. "Isn't it normal to have snow at this high altitude?" "That's right."

注意：续写词数应为 140~180 左右，且每段开头所列提示句不计入总次数。

W: Well... Let me see. April 15th, 6:15 p.m.

M: Haven't you changed your watch back yet? I thought I told you earlier that your watch was 45 minutes fast.

W: Ha ha, I forgot! Excuse me... Oh, is it that late already? Would you like to come to my house for dinner tonight? Everyone else is busy tonight. I can make my specialty dish called "Fish fragrant shredded pork".

M: Sorry, I have a meeting at 6:30 this evening, but you can invite Jack to your house tomorrow for our birthday. Back to furry. I thought Jack said he liked furry. You could buy some perimeter.

W: I see. Don't forget to come to my house tomorrow night.

M: I remember. Bye!

M & W: Good evening, fellow viewers. Today is December 24, 2020, the 17th of the fourth lunar month. Yesterday, a meteor from outer space hit near Yushu, Qinghai Province. It was the most energetic bolide event in China since records began in 1988, and one of the top 15 most energetic bolide events worldwide. The speed of the fall, the long duration of the fall, and the extremely high brightness of the landing indicate that it did not burn up in the air, and a large number of meteorites reached the ground at that time. That's all for this report. Thank you for watching. We are in the midst of a severe outbreak. Please wear a mask and disinfect yourself to prevent infection with the new coronavirus.
